Confluence-based intranet

With a cocktail recipe inside - Collaboration Sunshine!

How modern organizations collaborate better with Linchpin

Companies rely on collaboration - internally between employees, externally with partners, suppliers and customers. But many of the ingredients for successful communication are missing or poor quality because of the tools, processes and overall work environment in many companies today.

A healthy work environment, quality tools and optimized processes all influence employee motivation and happiness. Personalized content and tools, central and transparent communication, trust and humor are all important to collaborating effectively and efficiently.

The Linchpin dashboard keeps you up to date

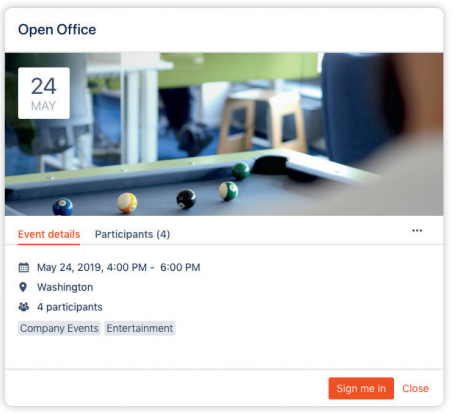

Follow Linchpin's recipe for modern collaboration by adding these missing ingredients in six easy steps.

Collaborate effectively and transparently

Avoid pointless meetings and a flood of email by using Linchpin microblogs and news posts to get fast feedback from your colleagues. Organize events and let participants manage their own attendance. Collaborate in real-time with your colleagues on documentation and diagrams. Share pages quickly and easily with your colleagues.

Make your events more attractive with Linchpin Events
